REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR OF ANIMALS.

To the Honorable Board of Selectmen of the Town of Millis.

I submit to you my report as Inspector of Animals.

One inspection of all neat cattle and premises has been made. Several places where the conditions were not up to requirements were visited again in April and also in September in company with an agent from the Department of Animal Industry.

Three cows have been quarantined and killed.

Respectfully submitted,

LYMAN A. COOK,

Inspector of Animals.

REPORT OF THE ELM LEAF BEETLE SUPERINTENDENT.

To the Honorable Board of Selectmen:

I herewith submit the annual report of spraying the elms and town shade trees.

All the elms within the highways of the town limits and other shade trees infested by caterpillars was sprayed and are in good condition.

I should recommend the town to appropriate $200.00 for spraying all town shade trees.

E. W. STAFFORD,
Superintendent.

REPORT OF THE GYPSY MOTHS SUPERINTENDENT.

To the Honorable Board of Selectmen, Millis, Mass.:

I herewith submit the annual report of the gypsy and brown tail moth.

I find the gypsy moth infestations are about the same this year as last, being mostly near the highway. The same methods are to be used as last year. We find some owners are very careless in the spreading of nests by transporting them in carting wood, brush and stones, without first destroying the nests, and some even to scraping the nests off on to the ground.

The following infestations have been destroyed so far this season scout: 18327 nests in orchards, 1233 trees and 377 shade trees on the highways, 20467 nests on 1116 trees, making a total of 38793 nests on 2726 trees, about 1185 yards stone wall is infested, and will be burned out this spring. There is still about 20 acres of wood land to be inspected and a few orchards.

I find the brown tail moths nests this year are very scattering, and I do not think they will be very plentiful. We ask owners to help the department by co-operating and spraying their trees (spray early) when the caterpillar is small and by cutting and burning rotten trees and brush and rubbish.

E. W. STAFFORD,
Local Superintendent.

The Committee further estimates the sum of money needed to provide for transportation of school children during said fiscal year will be $1000.

The Committee reports that since the last town meeting the sum of $500.00 bequeathed to the town under the will of the late Ann A. Hosmer has become available and the same has been expended, for the grading of the grounds around the new high school building as provided for in Miss Hosmer's will.

New equipment in the shape of a table for the use of classes in physics and chemistry has been added to the laboratory of the new school house. Benches have been installed in the basement of said school house and much needed repairs to the drains, porches and inside walls of the Adams school house have been made.

At the date of this report, all school property is in good condition with the exception of certain portions of the plastering in the Adams school house and the outside paint of said school house. While no specific recommendation is made in this report for an appropriation to provide for the painting of the Adams school house, the Committee believes that this matter should be presented to the town at its next annual town meeting, and has prepared a special article in the warrant designed to bring this matter to the attention of the voters.

With reference to the Committee's estimate of monies required for school purposes during the ensuing year the increase in its estimate over the preceding year is directly attributable to the increase in the number of school children. As the Superintendent has pointed out in his report, a much larger high school seems assured for the year 1915, and because of this larger school a third assistant teacher will become necessary. For the same reason, more money will be needed for books and supplies.

New equipment in the shape of additional desks and apparatus for classes in physics must be provided. The Superintendent has suggested the introduction of a commercial course for the high school. If this course is instituted, as now seems probable, typewriters and typewriter desks must be purchased.

Certain insurance premiums will become payable on the Adams school property.

Last year the Committee did not make a specific recommendation in regard to an appropriation for school transportation. It now finds that the sum of $900.00 appropriated therefor by the town in the years 1913 and 1914 is inadequate to furnish transportation satisfactory both to citizens of the town and the State Board of Education. The additional $100.00 asked for this purpose, as stated above, has been demonstrated to be necessary under existing conditions.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the School Committee of Millis:

My thirteenth annual report on the progress and condition of the public schools is herewith submitted for your consideration.

Authorities generally agree that a report of schools should be historical and statistical in nature, therefore, this report attempts to give briefly the history of the schools since January 31, 1914, accompanied by the usual statistics, together with a statement of present conditions, and some suggestive plans for the future.

As our schools increase in size and numbers, plans must be proposed to meet the needs of conditions. No one plan may be the best, but, out of the discussion which should follow any plan, some method of advancement should develop and be adopted.

The organization in September revealed about our usual number of changes in teachers. Four of the seven grade teachers were new and one of the three in the high school was new. It thus appears that just half of the regular teachers of last year returned. This source of weakness will continue to appear, year after year, until the time when our teachers are paid large enough salaries to enable us to hold those who are strong in the essentials which characterize the person who is in demand for high grade teaching positions. That time is doubtless in the far future, so, in the meantime, we must plan for changes, and, often times changes are desirable, as it does not argue well for the schools when it can be said in a town where the salaries are low, "the teachers never change." We regret our loss when good teachers go, but we are glad to note that, when they leave us, they step to higher positions.

The increased number in the high school required the employment of two full time assistants to the principal, in order to have the school fully approved by the State Board of Education. This made it necessary to change the custom which we have followed for several years, of having one of the assistants devote about half of her time to the high school, while the remainder of her time was used in the grades, thus enabling us to have one of the regular grade teachers supervise the drawing and manual arts. The importance of this line of work, however, and the requirements of the school law, made it necessary to continue it, so a special teacher is employed for one day each week. One day a week is not time enough in which to carry forward this important subject as it should be done, but as much is being done, and done as well as can be expected. We are fortunate in having a strong teacher for each of the special departments of music and drawing.

Our high school has grown from a registry of thirty-five last year to a registry of forty-nine this year. A large eighth grade makes a possible sixty-nine or seventy in the high school next year. Suppose we allow for a shrinkage of ten, which is a large estimate, even then we shall have a high school of sixty pupils. This will compel us to use the entire upper floor of the high school building for high school purposes, and by requirement of the State Board of Education, a larger teaching force will be needed.

The way is thus open for an extension of the number of courses to be offered to the pupils. We can do so by introducing more along the line of so-called commercial subjects, such as shorthand, typewriting, more book-keeping, &c. Another way might be to introduce household arts and manual training or introductory agriculture. The expense of equipment will have to be considered in connection with any attempt to broaden the program of studies, and naturally will be a factor in deciding the nature of the things to be attempted.

If the entire second floor of the high school building is made use of for high school purposes, it will become necessary to open another room in the Adams building. This will not be very expensive because we have nearly furniture enough to equip the room.

Because of the expected number in the sixth grade, next year, it will need a room by itself, but the fourth and fifth grades can be put together, and the other grades as now, so the elementary grades will not occupy any more rooms than this year.

The overcrowded condition of the Grange Hall School and some of the rooms in the Adams School, which, for a time, preceded the erection of the new building, had a serious effect upon the progress of the children in those rooms. The retardation which resulted was not the fault of the children, neither can the teachers be blamed, because the physical environment was such that it was impossible to obtain standard results. We are making an effort to overcome the loss of that period before these children reach the high school. For this reason, I am particularly anxious to have the sixth grade of next year go through the year under very favorable circumstances.

Seeds furnished by the Massachusetts State Agricultural College were distributed to eighty-three children who wished to join the Agricultural Clubs. Eighteen chose potatoes nine field corn, twenty-two sweet corn, fourteen garden beans and eleven tomato. The results, as shown by the exhibits at the Grange Fair, were very satisfactory, and in some case were exceptionally fine. If the children could have the encouragement of closer supervision, and the interested co-operation of their parents, I feel that the value of this work as an educational factor would be greatly augmented.

The lack of suitable conditions continues to keep before us the problem of properly caring for the children at lunch time. If another room is used for a schoolroom, in the Adams building next year, I suggest that the fourth room be arranged for a lunch room.

The school census has been taken as required by the Acts of 1914, and now includes all children five years of age and under sixteen years of age, on separate cards, with facts as suggested by the State Board of Education. The amount of information to be recorded on these cards added considerably to the work of the enumerator.

The following report of the Penny Savings shows a constant increase which is gratifying, but it fails to show the benefit which often comes to my attention when some child needs a pair of shoes or some other necessity, and finds that the savings of a few cents at a time has made it possible to buy the needed article. The stamps redeemed at such a time have not resulted in an account at the savings bank, but the child has learned a lesson in thrift, besides acquiring a physical benefit.

Again I am impelled to call attention to tardiness. The general attendance is very good, but there is a serious fault on the part of a few in not being on time. Punctuality is certainly a part of education, and parents should realize that it is a virtue worth much more to a person than many things learned from books. The evil seems to be confined to a few chronic cases, but to such an extent that there has been 430 cases in four months. Out of an average attendance of less than 270 pupils, this is certainly not a record to be commended.

Following the custom of previous graduating classes, the class of 1914 made a present to the high school upon their graduation. Their selection consisted of three much needed pieces of furniture for the teachers' room. Friends of the school have, also, furnished further equipment for both the teachers' room and the office. Personally and in behalf of the teachers I desire to express our appreciation of such thoughtful interest.

The statements of the school physician, and the teachers of music and drawing, in regard to their respective departments, are appended as a part of this report.

Respectfully submitted,

M. J. WEST,

Superintendent of Schools.

Millis, Mass., December 31, 1914.

Mr. M. J. WEST,

Superintendent of Schools.

In my department of the work of the schools, I find the general condition of the children excellent; showing good treatment and care on the part of the parents. There are several children who have large tonsils and adenoids whom I feel sure would do better school work, and whose general appearance would be improved if these were removed.

I have visited the schools nearly every week, and have been particularly careful in my efforts to stamp out any contagious disease which may have started. In connection with the school inspection I have also called at several of the homes of the pupils and have found the parents very courteous and willing to take all precautions to stop the spread of infectious diseases like measles, chicken pox, mumps, &c. I would like to impress further upon the parents that they watch for symptoms and keep from school for a day or two every child who complains of a sore throat, as even the mild cases of tonsilitis are contagious, also any suspicious swelling about the cheeks or a rash should not be neglected.

I have watched the sanitary conditions about the buildings, and, on the whole, consider them good. The method of drinking water through a bubbler is a recommendation for any public building and certainly is an important factor in reducing the number of cases of typhoid fever. I am thankful that we have not had an epidemic of that disease since I have been in Millis.

I would like to say a word about a so-called "new disease" known as Impetigo. This is disease of the superficial skin and comes in the form of scabs, and is spread by the action of the child when he or she picks the scab with the finger nails. It is very contagious but never has serious results. However it gives the child an unclean appearance and is very unsightly. This disease can be easily cured by cleaning off the scab with some mild antiseptic and cautioning the children to keep their finger nails away.

There has been very little trouble with head lice this year, although years previously it has been almost impossible to get some of the parents to co-operate in cleaning the thing up. I am also very glad to say that I do not know a child in town who has tuberculosis in any form.

Respectfully submitted,

E. L. HILL,

School Physician.

MR. M. J. WEST,

Superintendent of Schools.

Dear Sir: I herewith submit my second annual report of the work in music in the public schools.

In a previous report I gave an outline of the system as it is taught, and attempted to make clear our aims in music, and the goal we strive to reach.

In most of the grades a gradual improvement in sight reading and general ability, has been noted during the past year.

The introduction of the New Educational Music Readers, has been a source of much gratification. An added interest in the new material is shown alike by teacher and pupil. If boys and girls are to learn to appreciate good music, they must come in daily contact with it. All children are susceptible to influences around them. If properly directed the child will acquire a taste for good literature by reading good books, and the same is true of music. The use of a good class of songs is the only way to encourage a taste for good music.

The results obtained from the study of music in our schools, vary according to the ability of the individual. Someone has stated that in the teaching of poetry. We do not expect that every pupil is going to write poetry. Neither do we expect that every child will become a musician of ability. But the benefits they will derive from the study of music, with its training, and refining influences, is needed by all our boys and girls.

Respectfully submitted,

CARRIEBELLE E. THAYER.

TO MR. M. J. WEST,

Superintendent of Schools.

As I have not completed a year's work with the schools in Millis, I can only tell what has been done through the month of December, and what is expected to be done during the remaining school months. In the drawing work I am following a course which divides the whole subject into four departments; nature drawing, mechanical drawing, object drawing, and design. Each subject is graded and arranged to benefit the various classes. Written plans are given to the teachers to enable them to give more instruction and drill to the pupils during the week.

Owing to the limited time the sewing and manual work progress very slowly. Once in two weeks the pupils in the four upper grades sew or make baskets for forty-five minutes. At present the boys have been making Indian baskets and small desk stands from paper rope. Later they may make small objects from cardboard and leather.

I enjoy working with the boys and girls in Millis and I appreciate the willing aid and kindness of the teachers.

Respectfully submitted,

HELEN M. ALLAN.

AUDITOR'S REPORT.

This is to certify that all accounts having to do with the expenditure of money, Sinking Funds and Cemetery Trust Funds, have been audited and found correct.

Accrued interest not added to Water Department Sinking Funds as of Dec. 31, 1914, $78.63.

Beg to submit the following recommendations, which in my estimation, will materially increase the efficiency in town accounting. Chapter 669 of the Acts of 1913, Section 1, states that all bills shall be approved by the selectmen before payment is made by the treasurer. At present the bills paid by the water department are not approved by the selectmen. This will set forth the importance of recommendation No. 1.

No. 1.—All disbursements regardless of department should go through the General Town Treasurer, which is the natural channel for same.

No. 2.—Town officials having to do with the collecting and handling of money should provide books necessary for their respective offices, and keep funds belonging to the town absolutely separate from personal funds, depositing in bank in the name of the Town of Millis.

No. 3.—All orders on Treasurer should be carefully footed and total extended to the face of order in place provided for same. This detail should not be left for Treasurer to complete.

Respectfully submitted,

GEO. C. FEINDLE,

Auditor.

Millis, Mass., Feb. 10, 1915.
